An exchange comments: "Not so long ago a citizen of Drumheller was heavily fined for being in possession of home brew, which was over-strength. Last year the Alberta government made nearly $5,000,000 clear profit selling diluted liquor to the public at exorbitant prices. Bootlegging by any other name smells even worse."

PREMIER MANNING INSPECTS INSTALLATIONS AT EDMONTON AIR COMMAND STATION

An informal visit was made on Monday, October 2nd, by Premier E. C. Manning to the Edmonton station of the Northwest Air Command, RCAF, during which an inspection of the installations was made.

During the visit the Premier was taken to the control tower, where he took over the microphone and directed a United States Douglas transport in for a landing.

Mr. Manning was met on arrival by Group Captain A. V. Patriarche, AFC, and other command officers, and was accompanied on his inspection by Group Captain D. A. Harding, AFC, commanding officer of the Edmonton station; Squadron Leader Howard Watson, senior flying control officer, and Squadron Leader E. A. Kenny, senior administrative officer.

Visits were made to the recreation hall, with its swimming pool and complete sports equipment; the airmen's mess and kitchen equipment; the fire department and equipment stores. On arrival at the operators' room, details of routine flying rescue work and emergency preparations were explained.

In the airways control office, where flight of all commercial and military planes in the area is controlled, Mr. Manning listened to messages being sent, and received and heard a recording of conversation between planes and the control tower.

At No. 165 Squadron, the Premier boarded a Douglas aircraft and was shown the controls by Group Captain Harding and discussed matters relative thereto with the officer commanding the squadron, Flt. Lt. W. P. Ferguson.

Mr. Manning then visited the RCAF hospital, where he visited all the patients and was shown the operating room and other facilities in connection with the institution.

LOCAL MINER MEETS DEATH

A sad accident occurred at the local Greenhill mine on Wednesday at about 11:45 a.m., in which Joseph Krkosky, well known miner, was instantly killed by a fall of top coal.

He was working with his brother Martin on number 5 level at the time.

Mr. Krkosky was in his thirty-fifth year and a long-time resident of the district, coming here with his parents. He was an active member of the Blairmore town council, and for a number of years had served on the school board and was secretary of the Blairmore Local of the UMWA, and for a time an official unon representative in the district. He is survived by his wife and eleven-year-old son; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Krkosky; two brothers and a sister.

Funeral services will be held on Sunday afternoon.

An inquest will be held this evening before Coroner D. MacPherson. With the relatives The Enterprise extends deepest sympathy.

GIFT FROM MRS. DRUMM, CALIFORNIA, ACKNOWLEDGED

The Blairmore branch of the Canadian Red Cross has recently received a parcel from Mrs. Mark Drumm, of Fullerton, California, containing five separate articles which will be advertised later when arrangements are made for their disposal.

Mrs. Drumm wishes to aid the work in her former home district of Franklin, Blairmore, and the society is indeed very grateful for her remembrance.

A. W. Smith, Secretary.

According to the recently published annual report of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, there were 15,854 blind men, women and children in Canada when the annual statistics were compiled on March 31, 1943. The figure at the same date for the previous year was 12,546, which shows that during the year there was an increase of 308.

Breathes there a man with soul so small

Who would not give his very all
To aid th's—the world's great holocaust?

Where men fight on to the very last
So Canadians can their freedom save

And not be classed a tyrant's slave.
Our men fight on to see that day—

All they ask is to pave the way
With guns and tanks, ships, planes and shells.

They'll do their task and do it well!
If they but know we will not fail

To BUY A BOND when put on sale.

FORMER PASSITE DIES IN CALGARY

Eugene Chabillon, aged 64, passed away in Calgary on Sunday, an hour after sustaining injuries in a fall from a scaffold.

Born in Charbonnier-les-Mines, France, he came out to Hillcrest 35 years ago, moving to Calgary eight years later.

Surviving are his wife, Nathalie, Calgary; three sons, Sgt. D. Chabillon with the RCAF overseas; PO Leonce Chabillon with the RCAF at Ottawa; Raymond at Barhead, Alberta; a brother, Evariste, in Blairmore, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Bipiere, in France.

Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Famille church in Calgary on Thursday, and the remains were laid to rest in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. Evariste Chabillon, of Blairmore, attended the funeral.

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Frank Webber has gone to Vancouver to visit his parents.

Mrs. Robert Littleton has returned from Calgary, where she spent a few days with her brother, Scotty Wells, of Bellevue, who is critically ill in hospital.

Miss Edith Murphy arrived Thanksgiving Day from Chilliwack, BC, to spend a fortnight with her parents and other relatives and friends here.

Orin Dryer, of Coleman, paid a visit to his parents here recently. He had the misfortune a short while ago to fracture three ribs in an accident.

Mrs. Sidney McCabe, of Grand Forks, BC, arrived by Friday's train for a two weeks visit with her brother, H. C. Morrison, and family.

Larry Porter, of the Royal Navy, is home on two weeks leave from Eastern Canada. He will return on the twentieth.

Harry Gunn, M. A. Murphy, Arthur Tustian, Harry Smyth, Kenneth Martin and Griffith Parry attended the Masonic district meeting at Coleman on Thursday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwin, of Edmonton, are visiting relatives and friends at various southern Alberta points while on holiday leave from the CPR.

Mrs. Edmund Labrie and daughter Jeannette and infant son Francis, of Brocket, spent a few days visiting friends here recently.

Mrs. G. A. Neumann and son Kennedy, of Pincher Creek, are spending a few weeks at the parental home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy.

George Nicholas, of the Royal Navy, returned to the parental home at Bow Island after spending a few days here with his sister, Mrs. X. C. Kaupp.

Mrs. W. F. Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Blackburn and infant daughter and Mrs. Sylvia Adams; of Twin Butte, and Laurie Blackburn and Mrs. G. A. Neumann and son Kennedy, of Pincher Creek, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Murphy on Thanksgiving Day.

The first of a series of card-parties in aid of the Red Cross was held in the Masonic hall on Wednesday night, when a good crowd attended. Prizes were won by Miss Isobel Porter, ladies' first; Mrs. George Porter, consolation; Carl Sapeta, gents' first; L. A. Feller, consolation. The evening's amusements were concluded with a lively dance.

On Tuesday, while operating a power saw, Gus Shambran, of the North Fork, had the misfortune of cutting off three fingers. The accident happened through his losing his balance when a piece of wood that he had stepped on rolled toward the saw. He was rushed to St. Vincent's hospital at Pincher Creek for treatment, where he is resting easy. There is a possibility that one of the fingers may be saved.

President Roosevelt cautioned reporters at Washington on Friday not to give any hint that he is even guessing when the war with Germany will end. He hasn't set any date and isn't going to.

Major R. L. Williams spent the week end with his family in Blairstown, before going to his new posting at Terrace, BC. His wife and daughter Sharon accompanied him as far as Calgary on Monday, returning to Blairstown on Tuesday.

A special dinner was held under the auspices of the Lethbridge Bar Association at the Marquis Hotel on Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. Justice T. M. Tweedie, to mark his elevation recently to the chief justiceship of the trial division of the Supreme Court of Alberta. He passed away suddenly next morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Watson passed away at Coleman hospital on Saturday at the age of 62. Her husband predeceased nine years ago. She is survived by four sons and three daughters. She was a former resident of Hillcrest, where she was an active member of the Pythian Sisters' Lodge. The remains were laid to rest in Coleman cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, following services conducted at St. Albin's church by Rev. W. E. Brown.

They are preparing to spend on the politics of the election campaign in the United States sums which make our Canadian campaigns look like rather pathetic chicken feed. In 1936, the biggest year to date, a congressional committee estimated that $45,000,000 had been spent by both parties in electing a president and third of the senate and house of representatives. This year, with more money available, the $48,000,000 figures will probably be surpassed.—Ex.

Each of us is both consumer and producer.

As a producer each of us would like to get MORE money for our goods or services.

As a consumer each of us wants the costs of living kept down.

But we can't have it both ways.

As long as goods are scarce and money plentiful, prices have to be controlled or they'd jump sky high.

If prices are to be kept down, then costs of production including salaries, wages and raw materials must also be controlled.

One Person Can Start It!

When any one of us:

- offers to pay more than legal prices;
- asks higher returns for his services;
- asks higher prices for his goods.

He helps start a chain that forces every one else to do the same and nobody is better off.

Canada's Naval Power

CANADIANS HAVE WATCHED, with pride and interest, the rapid expansion of the Royal Canadian Navy during the past five years. Before the war, it comprised only about a dozen ships, while the personnel numbered around 1,700. Now there are hundreds of ships and the Canadian Naval personnel consists of around 100,000 men. Canada is now rated as the fourth largest sea power in the world. Britain, the United States and Japan have navies larger than ours, but with the inevitable elimination of Japan from this list it is apparent that Canada will soon move up to third place. This rapid growth in naval prestige is a remarkable one. It has meant a great increase not only in the numbers of men and ships, but in naval bases, ship yards and the many other requisites necessary to keep a powerful navy afloat.

Record Is A Splendid One

The record of the Royal Canadian Navy in combat is splendid one. Recent information given out by Mr. Macdonald, Minister of the Navy, pointed out that 109 Canadian ships participated in the invasion of Europe, 10,000 of our sailors took part in the action. Since that time the largest single convoy which ever crossed the ocean was made by the Canadian Navy. This convoy consisted of 150 ships, and carried more than a million tons of vital materials to the war zone. During the past summer North Atlantic convoy duty was carried out entirely by Canadian ships, and in addition the Canadian Navy is credited with sinking 13 surface ships and 15 submarines, and has captured or damaged 17 enemy ships. It has also taken part, with ships of other Allied nations, in the destruction of many enemy craft.

Fine Tradition Has Been Made

Although the navy has grown with gratifying speed during the past few years, it is not intended that this development shall cease when the war is over. Canada has established a tradition as a naval power which she will endeavour to maintain in the post-war years. Existing plans provide for a permanent naval force of some 9,000 men, but the Naval Minister suggested in his report that this number should be raised to 15,000 and that our fleet should consist of two airplane carriers, two cruisers, and light destroyers. This would call for an annual expenditure of $50,000,000 which might be considered a large item in a peacetime budget. That will be a matter to be decided later. At present the people of Canada may feel justifiably proud of the part their navy has played in the destruction of the Axis powers.

Had A History

This Bible Goes Through Battle In Two Wars

A father and son in the service of their country met recently at camp of the New York Port of Embarkation.

"Guess what I've here?" the son asked as he greeted his father, Mrs. Mrs. Sgt. George Swank, of Coopersburg, N.Y., formerly of Minneapolis, Minn., and a member of the 1st A.E.F.

With that, the son, Staff Sgt. Marcell Swank, produced a Bible, bloody and sweat-stained, which his father had carried while fighting in the Argonne Forest in the last war.

When young Swank went overseas, his father gave him the Bible. It was with the son during nine bloody hours at Dieppe and when wounded by shrapnel, he was pulled aboard a British destroyer.

Swank recovered, and, taking the Bible along, went to North Africa. He was at El Guettar in Tunisia when his outfit received the Presidential citation. Next came Sicily and Salerno and then the drive through Italy. Finally, Swank and his battered Bible were returned home.

IMPLEMENT FACTORY

Canadian Co-operative Implements, Ltd., has purchased the machinery and farm hardware factory operated by the Gregor Manufacturing Co., Winnipeg, according to a report from J. B. Brown, president of the purchasing company. The price was approximately $400,000. Mr. Brown also intimated that the prairie provincial governments would help finance the deal to the extent of $250,000. The C.C.I. is composed of farmers of the three prairie provinces.

The Netherlands has contributed more than 2,000,000 tons to the shipping pool created by the United Nations.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q.—Are there any coupons valid in Ration Book No. 3?

A.—Canning sugar coupons "F" number one to ten in book three are still valid and will not expire until December 31.

Q.—Now that restrictions are lifted on tea and coffee, will it be possible to have a second serving of tea or coffee?

A.—If they wish, restaurants may now serve their customers a second cup of coffee or pot of tea. However, sugar will be limited for the extra serving and cream will be provided for only one serving. However, milk may be provided for coffee or tea. Milk will be included in ration book five but will not be used. These ration books were printed before tea and coffee rationing restrictions were lifted.

Q.—What date does the age of an automobile change?

A.—You can become one year older on October 1st which is regarded as the beginning of the new model year for automobiles and trucks.

Q.—Is it necessary to have the baby's birth or baptismal certificate before application is made for a ration book?

A.—Parents must still apply at a local registrar board for their baby's ration book, but they no longer need to present the baby's birth or baptismal certificate as long as they have the doctor's or the hospital certificate and the doctor's laboratory declaration. These declarations will be issued at the hospital.

Please send you questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumer News" or the Blue Book (the book which you keep track of all your purchases) direct to the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

SMILE AWHILE

Your wife is very systematic woman, isn't she?" asked Robinson.

"Yes, very," replied Smith. "She works on the theory that you can find whatever you want when you don't want it by looking where it wouldn't be if you didn't want it."

She: "What's harder than a diamond?"

He (absently): "Paying for it."

Pa—No, I won't buy you a trumpet. You'd make too much noise with it."

Sonny—I wouldn't, dad. I'd play it only when you were asleep."

Friend: "Say, Bill, I saw your wife down town yesterday with a black patch over her eye. What happened?"

Bill: "Nothing. That's her new hat."

Blonde: "What kind of fellow was that you had the date with last night?"

Brunette: "Well, we were sitting in the parlor, the lights went out and he spent the rest of the evening repairing the fuse."

Officer: "What's the big idea? What are you men doing climbing trees and crawling through the bushes?"

Private: "Well, sir, we camouflaged the gun before lunch and now we can't find it."

Donald and Mary decided to adopt a child and asked at the orphanage for a little girl. One was produced and Mary was about to close the bargain when Donald tapped her shoulder.

"Mary," he whispered, "let's have a boy. Has ye forgotten the lad's cap we found in the train?"

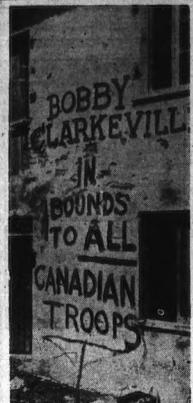

"Sometimes," said the mistress, "it will be necessary for you to help the butler upstairs."

"I understand, madam," replied the new maid, "when he's had too many."

"I'm proud to say I'm a self-made man."

"You're lucky. I'm the revised work of a wife and three daughters."

Security Enforced

Before Canadians launched their all-out attack on the Gothic Line in Italy, security was rigidly enforced. They took down their "Canada" badges and regimental flashes. When the Nazi thought they were still in front of Cassino, the Canadians suddenly appeared before Florence and struck the vaunted Gothic Line. All towns during the security period were "out of bounds" to the Canucks. Picture shows the prank of one of the Canadian regiments after the security ban was lifted.

A Lucky Waiter

Received Big Tip Because Man Did Not Make Mistakes

One Christmas morning James Gordon Bennett, the New York newspaper publisher, presented the waiter who always served him breakfast at Delmonico's with a small roll of currency. When the waiter examined it later, he was shocked. The roll contained six $1,000 bills! Believing that Mr. Bennett must have made a mistake, he turned the money over to his employer who locked it in his safe.

The next morning, when the publisher appeared, Mr. Delmonico took him aside and held out the six bills. "Of course, you made a mistake yesterday, Mr. Bennett," he said quietly. But the publisher suddenly bristled with anger. Rising to his full height, he exclaimed, "Mr. Delmonico, I must ask you to give that money back at once to your man. By this time you ought to know that James Gordon Bennett never makes a mistake!"

BUTTER FAT SPREAD

The tropical butter-fat spread, manufactured from creamery butter in Australia and New Zealand, does not melt at a temperature below 100 degrees F. Even if it should melt at higher temperatures, the spread can be re-incorporated by stirring. It has proved a boon to troops in the Pacific.

Forward March

It may not be the roll of Drake's drum that Probationary Wrens hear during their training on board H.M.C.S. Conestoga, training establishment of the Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service in Galt, but it sounds pretty much like it to Navy ears. Lorraine McAuley of Winnipeg, Man., and Joan McMaster of Orangeville, Ont., were the first to obtain permission to learn the drum. It is the drummer's job to march the band and the band is nothing but enthusiasm for the drummers' contribution to marching Division, and parts or official inspection of the several hundred Wrens-in-training, but other Wrens have become proficient in the drummer's art. The Wren behind the big bass drum is Grace Prestley of Regina, Sask.

Remember Our Sailors

Much Work To Be Done After Germany Is Defeated

Almost everywhere, it seems, there is talk of what we will do to celebrate when the war with Germany and her European allies is over.

It is going to be tremendously hard, if we have an official celebration, to the defeat of Germany taking place on the same day in all Allied countries, to regard the war with Japan as anything but a secondary cleaning-up of the war mess. And yet we in Canada, cannot afford to think that way when we remember the statement of the Allied leaders that, in response to demands by our Prime Minister, Canada is to be allowed to participate in the war against Japan in the proportion of her population amongst the other Allied countries' populations.

We have bitter fighting yet to do after Germany is cleaned up and our sailors and merchant seamen will be directly concerned in it. Young lads now in training in Canada's names will, presumably, man ships operating over the Pacific either fighting the Japanese or convoying merchant ships manned by Canadian sailors.

The Navy League know that our all-out attack on the Gothic Line in Italy, security was rigidly enforced. They took down their "Canada" badges and regimental flashes. When the Nazi thought they were still in front of Cassino, the Canadians suddenly appeared before Florence and struck the vaunted Gothic Line. All towns during the security period were "out of bounds" to the Canucks. Picture shows the prank of one of the Canadian regiments after the security ban was lifted.

LEISURE TIME

Uncle Sam's Army played gallant host recently to two Vancouver members of the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Sgt. Edna Mitchell of Vancouver and Pte. Shirley Granger of Kimberley, B.C. These young women were the first CWACs to visit the U.S. Army Recreation Camp at Santa Monica, California, and the Americans were lavish in their hospitality to the Canadian soldiers. The pair have now returned to their Vancouver posts, but are finding it difficult to settle down after 14 days holiday mid the wonders of Southern California, palm trees, tropical moons, beaches, and the close proximity of film famous. They were guests during their entire visit at the Santa Monica camp and ate at the camp canteen.

It was a dramatic day in the life of 2nd-Lieut. Therese Vanier, C.W.A.C. of Montreal, when she was posted from England to Paris. Not only was she one of the first C.W.A.C. officers to enter the French capital, but the posting brought a re-union with her father, and a return to the city she was forced to flee when the Germans marched in, in 1940. She is the daughter of Major-General George P. Vanier, Canadian Ambassador-Designate to the French Provisional Government. After her escape from France in a cattle boat, Lieut. Vanier enlisted in the Mechanized Transport Corps a British voluntary organization, and worked with the Fighting French. In June, 1943, she transferred to the C.W.A.C. and served in London as a private and non-commissioned officer. She recently received her commission.

ARMY PETs

Latest fad in the Dominion of WACDOM is animals—the stuffed variety. A visit to a CWAC barracks in London, Ont., revealed many interesting and ornamental "pets" prepared on the beds of the Army girls. For example, there was "Muddles" a slap-happy plush kitten, fluffily dressed in a blue and white striped sweater, blue trousers and a perky yellow bow under his chin. Next door, was "Peachy", a canine species, made entirely of peach colored yarn with shiny button eyes. Other pets include everything from cuddly teddy bears to naughty-looking pandas. Every morning after smoothing their top blankets to perfection for the critical eye of the orderly officer, the girls place their colorful pets on their bunks and dash off to work.

Carrot leaves once were believed to be so decorative that English ladies of Queen Elizabeth's time wore them in their hair in place of feathers.

France Is Emerging From War With Comparative Little Damage

It is a strange fact that materially and economically, as well as in actual war casualties to personnel, France will probably emerge from this struggle far more lightly than Britain, comments a London correspondent of the Ottawa Journal. Yet France has been four years under the German jackboot, and Britain has happily escaped that ordeal. In actual war devastation, whether by bomb or shell, there can be no comparison between the damage wrought to French and British cities. Paris is virtually intact. London is festooned with ruins. More than 50,000 of the British civilian population have been killed and about the same total seriously injured, not to count a far larger number of minor casualties. British soldiers in the fighting services have been far heavier than those of France. Paris has exhausted not only her overseas credits but her gold reserve. France has a very substantial gold reserve. In fact France will, economically at all events, be in a far more comfortable position when peace-time problems have to be met, than Great Britain. Nobody grudges France her many advantages, but it is only right that there should be no illusion about the facts.

Changes Made In Clocks At Greenwich Observatory

The Astronomer Royal, Sir Harold Spencer Jones, is replacing the pendulum clocks at the Greenwich Royal Observatory with quartz crystal chronometers, accurate to 1-10,000th part of a second a day. The new method has been of great value in the work at Greenwich and important in checking service instruments. The wireless time regulators are now controlled by it.

Canadians In Naval Action On Norway Coast

OTTAWA.—The first action involving a Canadian-manned aircraft carrier was reported here when a navy release told of "successful operations" against the Norwegian coast in August, in which the carrier Nabob and the Canadian destroyers Sioux and Algonquin participated with units of the British home fleet.

The Nabob and her sister ship, Pumpernickel, are manned with Canadian sea-crews but are Royal Navy ships and have fleet air arm crews on board. The Nabob, commanded by Prime Minister Mackenzie King's nephew—Capt. Horatio Nelson Lay—was first in the news in the spring when she ran ashore leaving Vancouver.

The aircraft which operated from the carriers attacked enemy shipping and shore installations in the Norwegian waters between Alesund and Christiansund North. Aircraft hangars and a number of large storehouses at an enemy airfield at Gosen were heavily attacked and set on fire.

Fighter escort for the heavier planes had a field day. Six enemy planes were destroyed on the ground and a seventh damaged. Navy planes attacked other targets in the Leyco area.

Three armed vessels were attacked in the same area, two bursting into flames. The cost of the striking force was two aircraft missing.

The Nabob's crew were Avenger bombers and they completed two strikes on the coast without a hitch. Enemy flak was observed on the second strike but the group did not come under attack.

Lt.-Cdr. R. E. Bradshaw, a Briton who joined the Nabob with his squadron at San Francisco in February, had words of praise for the ship aircraft landing parties, entirely composed of Canadians.

"They handled the machines smartly," he said, "and they showed the greatest keenness throughout the operation."

Destroyers and cruisers formed a tight and unbreakable screen for the big carriers. If there were no ships or aircraft in their line, they did not appear. Minutes after the last of the attackers had dropped its wheels on deck, the British and Canadian warships were heading back to their base.

HELPED IN CAPTURE

Third Division Was Canadian Infantry Force Which Overcame Boulogne

WITH THE FIRST CANADIAN ARMY.—The First Canadian Division veteran of the battle of Normandy, is the most formidable force which in the last two weeks of September assaulted and overcame the big German garrison at Boulogne, capturing the channel supply port and taking 11,000 prisoners.

The operation was remarkable for two things:

1. The manner in which infantrymen with strong air support and backed by specialized British armored formations sometimes called "zoos", fought their way through German defense belts with concrete backbones.

2. The smallness of the Canadian infantry force which carried out the operation.

Le Regiment de la Chaudiere of Lake Megantic, Que., was disclosed to have had an important part in the assault and capture of Boulogne. The French-speaking troops were assigned to the attack when it began, Sept. 17, and took a whole series of fortified positions north of the port, but did not take part in the final entry.

Among Canadian Third Division units on D-day was Regina Rifles Regiment.

WANTS TO TAKE SHARE

OTTAWA.—Sir Keith Murdoch, Australian newspaper proprietor, reviewing the war in the Far East in an article in the Daily Mail, said that although the United States forces now are "prodigiously strong" and are capable of winning the struggle against the Japanese on their own, Britain must insist on taking her full share.

Air Conference To Talk Over Empire Routes

OTTAWA.—Officials of British Commonwealth governments will meet in Montreal beginning Oct. 23 to discuss the establishment of air routes between members of the commonwealth, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said.

Mr. King said the officials will discuss operational and technical problems connected with the establishment of the air routes. Military air transport services operated during the war will be reviewed.

"It is expected that there will be discussion of possible operations during the remainder of the war as well as in the post-war period," Mr. King said. "Any recommendation made by the conference will be submitted to governments for their approval on matters of policy will not be made at these meetings."

The commonwealth governments have intended for some time to hold conversations on aviation problems.

"Since a general international conference on the subject will be held in the United States in November, it was decided that the most convenient method of holding the commonwealth talks would be to arrange a meeting in Canada which could be attended by delegations coming to this continent for the conference in the United States," said Mr. King.

One of the subjects which definitely will be discussed at the Montreal conference will be Australia's plan for a Pacific ferry between North America and Australia and New Zealand.

Such a ferry service, with the air forces of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Britain co-operating, was proposed in a recent speech by Australian Air Minister Drakeford in the Canberra house of representatives.

The text of Mr. Drakeford's statement was released here by Sir William Glasgow, Australian high commissioner, and is already being closely studied by air experts in Ottawa.

Up to the present, Mr. Drakeford said, the bulk of the air service across the Pacific has been operated by American authorities. But Australian bases are being used less frequently and moved northward. In a comparatively short time American bases may be moved northward of Australia altogether.

The need for conveyance of military and high priority personnel and freight between North America and Australia will still exist and the time is fast approaching when we shall have to provide the service for ourselves," Mr. Drakeford said.

MAY BE MARCH

Deadline Passed For Calling Of Federal Election This Year

OTTAWA.—The deadline has now passed for the calling of a federal election this year. As a result, the date favored in Ottawa speculation is next March.

No prospect now exists of an election in November, in view of the timing provided for in the election act. Political circles have ruled out December, January and February as likely election months, unless an unforeseen crisis arises.

Some talk is heard here that parliament will be called again for a brief session prior to an election next spring.

Europe's Wheat Needs Are Less Than Expected

OTTAWA.—Information assembled by government sources indicated that Europe will need less of Canada's wheat in liberated areas than had been anticipated.

Canada has been ready to provide all that was needed. With an estimated 450,000,000 bushels at July 31, she has more wheat than she can use at home or hope to export in a normal year.

Authorities were reducing their expectations of wheat sales in Europe on the basis of the following information:

1. Rapid advances by Allied armies have protected sabotage of food crops by the Germans. Large areas are reported untouched and yielding fairly good crops of grain.

2. Wheat over and above local requirements from French areas is expected to move into deficit regions.

3. The Russian advance into Romania and Bulgaria will permit the shipment of any wheat surpluses to Russia rather than to Germany.

In spite of this more cheerful picture of the European grain supply, officials said that "large" supplies no doubt would be required. But the United States, as well as Canada, had a good wheat crop this year and UNRRA will spend major amounts in the United States for supplies.

The good United States crop has another effect on the Canadian sur-

Renault Arrested

Louis Renault's (above) expression of concern is quite a legitimate one, for this leading French automobile manufacturer has been arrested and charged with dealing with the Nazis during their occupation of France. He was taken into custody in a clinic where he claimed he was under treatment for ill health. The magistrate signed an order for Renault to be physically examined, but in the meantime, he was sent to Fresnes prison, together with the general manager of his plant, the Renault Works.

plus position. In the crop year 1943-44, from 150,000,000 to 160,000,000 bushels of Canada's total exports of about $44,000,000 bushels went to the United States, much of it to be used for feed. If adequate supplies are available at home, imports from Canada will be substantially reduced in 1944-1945.

A BIG PROBLEM

Men Fighting In Europe Will Need Warm Winter Clothing

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS—American strategic bombers have taken a major role in the vital battle of supply now being waged in France and Belgium by loading their bombs hairy with winter overcoats and uniforms for shivering thousands of American troops instead of explosives for the enemy.

It is apparent that among the biggest problems confronting Gen. Eisenhower is the race against winter and the struggle to overcome the handicap of long supply lines.

These obstacles must be measured alongside the problem of German strength. Headquarters now is faced with the question of giving munitions and gasoline higher priority than warm clothes.

Despite the known Allied power, it is apparent that the supreme command is preparing for a long winter campaign.

NO DECISION YET

OTTAWA.—No Allied decision has yet been reached on the question of payment of reparations and indemnity by Germany after the war, Prime Minister Churchill said in the House of Commons.

Honor Awards By Russia For Allied Leaders

LONDON.—The Moscow radio announced that the Soviet government had awarded the Order of Suvorov, First Class, to Field Marshal Montgomery, commander of the British 21st Army group on the western front.

The order, bestowed by the presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R., is the highest army decoration given to any person outside the Soviet Union.

In addition, it was awarded to Lord Beaverbrook, lord privy seal, and to Oliver Lyttelton, minister of production, for the important roles they have played in the struggle against the common enemy, and to Lt.-Gen. Mark Clark, commander of the United States 5th Army in Italy.

The broadcast said the Order of Kutuzov, First Class, had been awarded to Air Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory, commander-in-chief of the Allied Expeditionary Air Forces, and to Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the 12th United States Army group on the western front.

Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, R.N., commander-in-chief of the Allied Naval Expeditionary Forces, was awarded the Order of Sukhov, First Class, highest award for naval men outside the Soviet Union.

The Allied invasion commanders were honored for "forcing the channel and . . . inflicting a heavy defeat on the German army."

BRITAIN'S DEBTS

WILL NEVER RETURN To The Gold Standard, Says Sir John Anderson

LONDON.—Sir John Anderson, chancellor of the exchequer, declared that Britain would never return to the gold standard as such, but pledged that she would join with the United States in seeking to eliminate "all forms of discrimination in international commerce."

He announced also at a lord mayor's luncheon that Britain in the fifth and most financially costly year of the war, had met a higher proportion of expenditure out of current tax revenue than in any of the previous four years.

"Our external debts do not fill me with dismay," he said, "although I would not like to contemplate what they might have been but for that financial miracle 'lend-lease' and the most generous war contributions of Canada."

CANNOT SERVE

No Alien Born Person Need Apply For UNRRA Jobs

OTTAWA.—Persons born in enemy countries will not be employed by UNRRA to administer relief and rehabilitation of those areas in the world devastated by war.

While some limited recruiting of staff for the 44-nation relief organization is at present in progress in Canada, it is learned reliably that applications will not be considered from persons born in Germany, Italy, Rumania, Japan and other enemy countries. It is the purpose of the relief organization to employ only persons not connected in any way with an enemy country.

CHINA COMPLAINS

Says Allies Have Not Supplied Sufficient Help

CHUNGKING.—Prime Minister Churchill's recent use of the term "lavish" to describe American help to China drew an editorial protest in the Chinese press. Mr. Li, editor of China's most influential newspaper, said the world should realize that Britain and the United States were not entirely free from responsibility, at least morally, for China's military weakness, and that American lend-lease help to China amounted only to one or two per cent of the total given the Allies.

BRITISH WORKMEN'S
COMPENSATION PLAN

The British government has announced plans for changes in workmen's compensation for industrial injury, and promises pensions that would be paid in the same manner as soldiers' pensions.

The government said in its White Paper, which will provide the basis for public and parliamentary discussion, that compensation would be given the worker for the injury itself, and not for the loss of earning power.

Under the government's plan, liability, instead of being on the individual employer, would be placed upon it, if it is buying its uncontrolled, a central fund, out of which all benefits and administrative charges would be paid. Benefits would be at a bonds, and it's just common-sense uniform flat rates, with awards decided by a medical board. Appeals could be made to a special tribunal.

All persons working under contract would be covered, and it would also apply to non-manual workers.

The central fund would be maintained by weekly contributions from employers and workmen, with the British treasury also contributing.

The weekly contribution rate, shared equally between employer and worker, would be about 10 cents for adult men, about 8 cents for adult women, and half these rates for juveniles.

The government contends by basing benefit on injury and not on the worker's earning power, it would eliminate disputes whether a workman had recovered any earning power.

Under the plan, a disabled single man or woman without dependents would get $7 a week for the first thirteen weeks, $8 for the next thirteen; and then, if still classified as disabled and unemployable, would be paid $10 weekly.

TO SECURE MEN FROM FARM FOR WINTER JOBS

The National Selective Service is opening a campaign to secure over 100,000 men from the farms to work in other essential industries during the fall and winter months. While care will be taken not to encourage men to leave dairy or livestock farms, where they are needed during the winter, the effort will be to secure men for vacancies in other industries just as soon as the fall work is completed. The largest single group of farm workers will be asked to take work in the woods on cutting sawlogs, pulpwood cutting and other forest operations. It is estimated that at least 60,000 men will be required in the woods this fall and winter.

The labor minister further predicted that whatever the course of the war in Europe, the quota of workers from the farms will still be urgently necessary for Canadian industries.

JOHN CITIZEN SAYS:

Believe me, folks, inflation's not a thing for just a passing thought. The juggling of the nation's bills to save us from inflation's ills is something to be thankful for, and sure has helped to win the war. The thing is, though, it's not too late.

Inflation STILL could take a hold—unless it will be buying's uncontrolled, a central fund, out of which all benefits and administrative charges would be paid. Benefits would be at a bonds, and it's just common-sense uniform flat rates, with awards decided by a medical board. Appeals could be made to a special tribunal.

The following was written by Sergeant Hugh Brodie, of the Royal Australian Air Force, since reported "missing in action":

Almighty and all present Power,
Short is the prayer I make to Thee.
I do not ask in battle hour
For any shield to cover me.

The vast unalterable way,

From which the stars do not de-

May not be turned aside to stay
The bullet flying to my heart.

I ask no help to strike my foe,
I seek no petty victory here.

The enemy I hate, I know,
To Thee is also dear.

But this I pray, be at my side,

When death is drawing through the sky.

Almighty God, who also died,

Teach me the way that I should die.

A motorist, much the worse for alcoholic wear, was driving along a country road when he fell asleep at the wheel. A moment later, his car had left the road and plied up in the mud unsteadily in the buggy, and crawled out of the wreck quite uninjured, the steward looking over the yah! Get up, get going, you lazy damage and concluded that he would son-of-a-gum or durmed if I won't have to be towed into a garage. Meanwhile, he was ten miles from home, so he had the bright idea of renting a horse and buggy from some farmer for the trip home.

He was successful in obtaining the horse, and set off at a smart clip.

This advertisement is issued by the Dominion Department of Labour in aid of the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labour Programme.

A Victory Bond is a mortgage on Canada... all of this country's resources guarantee payment of principal and interest. And money you lend to Canada, when you buy Victory Bonds, is the safest investment you can make.

You can borrow on Victory Bonds for seasonal farm requirements or any bank will pay cash for your bonds should you need cash at any time.

Money is a vital war weapon. Canada needs every dollar that every Canadian can save and lend... more than ever before. As the war increases in intensity, Canada's need for money increases, too. Our country's all-over borrowing needs are increased by over three hundred and twenty million dollars at this time. We must each be ready to lend again, and to lend more.

Thousands of small grains make a bushel of wheat. So with the war small sums loaned by individuals mount up to billions. Lend all you can... money you have saved and money you can save... but do not think that small loans are unimportant. Put your savings into mortgages on Canada—marketable mortgages. You will be doing a worthwhile war job... and you will get your money back... with interest.

Victory Bonds will provide cash for farm improvements you plan to make when the war ends... new buildings... new machinery... better stock... cash to pay on a new car or a new home.

Solved Problem

Salvation Army Found Means Of Assisting A Chinese Gentleman

(By J. Clinton Eacott)

Salvation Army officers are accustomed to strange requests. One day an old Chinese gentleman came to one and said: "You are an officer in the Save World Army" (literal translation of the Army's name in China). "Yes," said the officer. "You save people," queried the old gentleman. "Yes," said the officer. "You save everybody," was the next question, and the answer was still in the affirmative. "Can you save dogs?" was the next startling question, and though puzzled as to where this was leading him, the officer again answered "Yes."

"Well," said the old gentleman, beaming. "You are the people we want," then he went on to explain that in the Concession the police rounded up stray dogs and impounded them, if these dogs were not redeemed at the cost of a dollar each within a certain time they were destroyed. "Now," said the old gentleman, "I am a Buddhist, and the destruction of animal life is abhorrent to me, so I redeem as many dogs as I can, but I don't know what to do with them. Sometimes I just let them loose, hoping they will find their way home, but then they are caught and impounded again and I must redeem them once more. Now you can help me to save those dogs."

For a minute the Salvationist was nonplussed, but then remembered the hundreds of farmers who with their families had fled to his city from the worn town country side. Their beds and dogs had been destroyed by the invading armies. Through the winter they had stayed in Salvation Army refugee camps, but now the spring was coming and they were anxious to get back to their land, surely they would like to take some dogs with them. This proved to be the case, and no matter how many dogs the old Buddhist redeemed from the place, the farmers were glad to take them!

Another problem was solved to the mutual joy of Buddhist, farmer, police and even the dogs!

That was not all, the old gentleman influenced many of his friends to make donations to the Army's work for refugees, so that Chinese city thousands of dollars were received for that "Home Front".

DIGGING POTATOES

The potato, like all other vegetable crops, should be handled carefully in harvesting to prevent mechanical injury. A hand fork or a four-pronged fork is best done in small areas. One good man can dig about half an acre a day, while the mechanical digger can lift from three to five acres in the same time.

The tea drinking habit was largely responsible for the development of fine English porcelain.

Train Orders By Radio

Taking a hint from the practice of tank units of the Allies armed at the front, the Canadian National Railways, in co-operation with the Canadian Marconi Company, is conducting a series of tests of radio communication between signal towers and trains in operation. The idea is to eliminate written train orders and signals, speed up train movements and effect greater operating economy.

Two Canadian National locomotives, a Diesel and an electric, operating in the electrified area of the Montreal terminals, have been equipped with transmitting and receiving equipment and for several weeks their engineers will proceed in and out of the busy terminal on instructions received by radio.

The photographs show equipment in use on one of the trains and workmen putting the antenna in position on top of the C.N.R. lift bridge which crosses the Lake Ontario.

This first introduction of radio into Canadian railroading recalls the fact that more than 20 years ago, the National System was the first railroad in America to provide radio for its passengers and owned and operated a coast-to-coast broadcasting chain.

Civilians Can Help Wounded Men To Regain Normal Life

The ordeal of men who have been wounded in active service does not end when they are lifted out of their crippled planes, carried off the field of battle or from their ship's sheltered deck. If the wounds are serious, they mean just the end of one type of combat and the beginning of another. The second, the struggle to regain health and strength, is often the hardest of all for the hitherto very active individual, suddenly deprived of that active role and often faced with new handicaps to which he must become adjusted.

The personnel of military, naval and air force hospitals know well how very tough this fight can be, and how it often requires all the spiritual, mental and physical strength a man possesses. They know, too, how important a part civilians can play in this struggle. One of the first things that civilians are called on to do, and perhaps one of the most important of all, is to wounded men just the plain ordinary courtesy that any well-bred person observes in regard to any other stranger or to a friend facing difficulties.

"Don't stare" and "Don't ask questions" are two appeals which have been voiced by veterans in hospitals in Washington, D.C., who are fighting for a return to normal civilian life after losing an arm or a leg in combat overseas. The appeal has been given widespread publicity through the New York Times.

Disabled soldiers who have spent months learning how to use artificial limbs dread their first contact with the public because of the attention and questions they expect, Staff Sgt. Robert K. Yandell reported. The sergeant, who lost a leg in the First World War, is stationed at the hospital as an instructor of men similarly disabled.

A convalescent who lost his left arm in Italy told Sergeant Yandell that there are three kinds of people as far as veterans in his predicament were concerned:

First, those intelligent enough not to stare and ask questions.

Second, those who mean well and would like to do something for us, but always say and do the wrong thing, such as offering pity and sympathy. They just don't stop and think.

Last are the long-nosed gossiping type. They ask fool questions, try to pry into our private lives for a story they can tell to anyone who will listen. They are the worst of all.

The Yankee Doodle song was taken from an old Dutch harvest song.

Speech Therapy

Treating Flying Men Who Have Suffered From Facial Injuries

Eagerly welcomed by the Royal Air Force as a contribution toward the rehabilitation of flying men with facial injuries who have virtually been taught to speak again, the first recorded color film of the tongue movements has been made by a phonologist, J. Y. Bogue, and an R.A.F. research man, Donald Fry. To obtain the film, the Londoners secured the cooperation of a Londoner, 72, whose tongue was exposed to view as the result of an operation involving the removal of the right cheek. An article describing this process appeared in "Endeavour", published by the Imperial Chemical Industries.

The film record of the tongue movements is accompanied by a sound track. The shots taken are intended for analysis in conjunction with a cathode ray oscilloscope of the speech sounds taken at the same time. Such an analysis prognosticates rapid advance in the field of speech therapy.

Work Of R.A.F.

How They Struck At Radio Stations In Belgium

Within hours of "D" day rocket-firing Typhoons struck at every radio station from Brest to Belgium. The enemy's system of warning, devised against invasion, was thrown into confusion, and the Allies achieved a great measure of surprise during initial landings. The second task allocated to the R.A.F. immediately before invasion was the silencing of ten coastal batteries within the immediate vicinity of the landing areas.

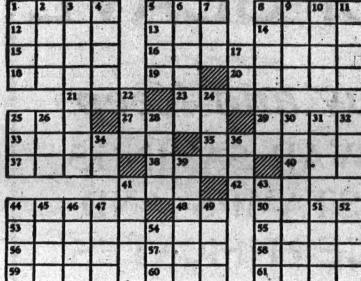

A force of 1,000 R.A.F. bombers dropped a load of 5,000 tons of bombs. Practically all the batteries were accounted for and the odd one or two which were able to fire were silenced by the guns of the Fleet.

ORDERS FROM FATHER

Navajo Indian Judge Many Chilie of Gallup, New Mexico, received notice that a son has been wounded in action. He sent him this message: "If you are wounded in the leg and can't march, you should tell the army and come home. If you are not wounded in the leg, get up pronto and shoot some more Japs."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

Trial By Fire

By FAYE MCGOVERN

McClure's Newspaper Syndicate

The captain of the American freighter spoke grimly. "This cargo of food and medical supplies won't reach Shin Lee. The entire province has been isolated by the enemy. Famine and disease are imminent. It's up to you, Stacy, to contact Mr. Mu—and no one else! Understand? He's the only man we dare trust. This port is crawling with spies who will stop at nothing to get this material for themselves. Now, what is it you are to do?"

"Go to the Copper Kettle," replied First Mate Stacy. "Order a cup of American tea to identify myself, and wait for Mr. Mu."

The captain nodded. "Those were Mr. Mu's instructions. And the password?"

"Checkmate." A few moments later, clad as an inconspicuous tourist, Stacy made his way up a filthy street to where a tarnished copper kettle swung gently above a narrow, forbidding doorway. Orders were orders, but why the Dickens did he have to be the goat? It wasn't his wine! He ducked into the shadowy interior and waited himself glumly at a small, lacquered table. Instantly a Chinese servant stood beside him.

"American tea," Stacy said shortly. The Chinese bowed and vanished behind a sleazy curtain. Stacy glanced warily around, found himself completely alone. To all outward appearances he was just another shore tearnoom. Doubtless merely a front for opium dens beyond. A sweet penetrating odor offended his nostrils. He frowned, then shrugged, drumming his fingers impatiently. Opium or incense, what difference did it make? Where was Mr. Mu?

The Chinese returned, set a steaming cup before him, bowed, and disappeared again. Stacy looked at the amber liquid with distaste. He hated tea. He glanced up as the curtain stirred, just in time to see a sinister, mummy-like face swiftly withdraw, leaving.

Stacy's scalp prickled. Holy cow! He was being watched. Better be careful. No telling who the fellow might be.

He took a gulp of tea, and made a wry face. "American tea, my eye!" he thought. The sweet-scented atmosphere seemed to thicken. He fought off a feeling of suffocation. His fingers felt nervous. The cup slipped, banged on its edge and spilled. Hang the incense! His head was reeling.

When consciousness returned, Stacy thought for a groggy moment he was in his bunk aboard ship, awakening from a bad dream. He tried to move, and couldn't. He was bound hand and foot, face up, on some sort of a bamboo rack. He could see nothing but a damp clay ceiling and walls, lighted dimly by flickering candles. An underground room, he conjectured. He tried to raise his head and found that a band of cloth across his forehead made it impossible.

Suddenly the evil face of the curtains appeared above him. Stacy was startled first, then furious. He opened his mouth to demand an explanation, then snapped it shut. He wouldn't give the enemy satisfaction!

"Where is the American cargo to be landed?" The voice was menacing.

Stacy coldly returned the man's stare.

"The American does not wish to talk?" The face moved out of sight. "What a pity!"

Something brushed against Stacy's feet. A tingle leaped through him. They were bare!

The man spoke from near his feet, his voice oily with insinuation. "The enemies of China have ingenious means of persuading the most reluctant. Perhaps this—"

Stacy's step was seared by the voice purring. "Perhaps the other foot," the voice purred.

Stacy caught his breath. "Go ahead, you slant-eyed mummy-mum!" he thought bitterly. "Milk me for life. Cripple me. Burn my feet off. You'll get nothing out of me! Not while women and children are—ohhh!"

A line of fire crisscrossed his soles. Again, and again. His fingernails dug deep into his palms. Every nerve in his body shrieked. Through pain-slitted eyes he thought he saw smoke rising—he clamped his eyes, gritted his teeth, and tensed himself for more. But instead, miraculously, he felt something cool smeared over his soles. Then fingers worked at his bonds, fumbling in their haste.

Stacy struggled to sit up, furious. "Thought you could make me talk, eh?" He yanked the cloth from his forehead. "Burn my feet off, will you?"

His torturer backed away. "The human imagination is a potent force," he protested. "I assure you, Sir, you're never superfluous."

"Never mind the verbal salve!" Stacy roared. "I saw smoke!"

"Die ice vaporizes!"

"Die ice!"

The man folded his hands humbly. "You will forgive a foolish old man," he pleaded. "We dare take no chances. Our people in Shin Lee Province must not perish because of our carelessness. We had to prove, in our own way, your worthiness to share our secrets. Had you 'squealed' to us, so might you also have captivated the enemy. Is it not so?"

Stacy's eyes narrowed. "Say, who the devil are you?" The parchment-like face softened. "With humility and pride I make myself known to you, courageous sir. Checkmate."

Stacy swept the gaunt figure with belligerent eyes—unconvinced—then stared, appalled, at the man's feet. They were mere stumps, bound round and round with cloth. Something more than dry ice had been used there. Yet this man still dared defy his enemies.

Stacy gulped, grimed sleepily, and extended an apologetic hand. "The humility is all mine, Mr. Mu. Where do we go from here?"

ENERGY FOOD

From the time the baby gets that first spoonful of solid food until the day the trunks are packed for college, cereal constitutes a good part of the daily diet. Toddlers get several meals and morning. As school children it's their energy-starter for the day. Even in their teen years they find it a good filler-upper, both at meals and in between.

Most youngsters like cereals and a lucky thing it is! Topped with either cream or milk, the morning cereal, either hot or cold, is a fine source of energy. Cereals combined with milk provide a good supply of those nutrients that children need for growth.

These cereals are smart in cooking, too. Take the matter of cookies. How the youngsters love them! Even cookies should offer food value plus flavor. Honey Krisp Cookies do both; they're made with pure country honey and crisp rice cereal.

Honey Krisp Cookies

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup shortening
 $\frac{1}{2}$  cup honey
2 eggs

$\frac{1}{4}$  cup sour cream

$\frac{1}{4}$  cup flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

$\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt

$\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon soda

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped nuts

$\frac{1}{2}$  cup brown sugar OR

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1 cup crisp rice cereal

Blend shortening and honey. Add well-beaten eggs and cream. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and soda; add to first mixture. Stir in nut meats, dates, flavoring and cereal. Drop from a dessert spoon onto lightly greased baking sheet and bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

Yield: Two dozen cookies (4 inches in diameter).

A little girl was put in an upper berth for the first time. She kept crying till her mother told her not to be afraid, because God would watch over her. "Mother, are you there?" "Yes." "Father, are you there?" "Yeah." A fellow passenger lost all patience at this point and bellowed forth: "We're all here. Your father and mother and brothers and sisters and aunts and uncles and cousins. All here—now go to sleep." There was a pause, then, very softly: "Mamma, was that God?"

The War Service Gratuity
and Re-establishment Credit—
OTHER ASSISTANCE AFTER DISCHARGE

The Canadian re-establishment program gives discharged members of the services assistance under a wide variety of measures during the period when they are deciding their future as civilians.

THE WAR SERVICE GRATUITY

This became law at the last session of Parliament, and provides, after discharge, monthly payments to those honorably discharged, who enlisted for service anywhere, and to those who saw service in the Aleutian Islands for their period of service there. It provides a basic gratuity of $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere and $15.00 for each 30 days' service overseas. A supplementary gratuity of seven days' pay and allowances, with Canadian subsistence allowance, is paid for each six months' overseas service. Service in Greenland, Iceland, the Aleutian Islands and any other theatre of war is overseas service. Other places in the Western Hemisphere are not. Aircrew, flying outside the Canadian waters, or stationed outside Canada or the United States, and Naval personnel in sea-going ships of war are regarded as on overseas service.

Monthly payments not exceeding monthly pay and allowances last received will start after January 1, 1945, unless the Act is proclaimed earlier.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT CREDIT

A re-establishment credit, equal to the basic gratuity shown above, and not including the supplementary one, is available in the 10 years following discharge for constructive purposes such as purchase of a home, business, furniture or tools, or payment of premiums under Government life insurance. It can also be used for modernizing or repairing a home, for working capital of a business and other similar purposes. The re-establishment credit is reduced by any grants paid while training or continuing education, or by grants paid under the Veterans' Land Act. Training, education and Veterans' Land Act grants cannot be paid if the re-establishment credit is used, unless an adjustment is made.

AT DISCHARGE

At discharge every man and woman is advised of the re-establishment program, is given a complete medical and dental examination, and may receive free treatment for any condition shown by the examination, in the year following discharge. They are allowed to retain one uniform and certain other service clothing. All discharged since August 1, 1944, receive a $100 civilian clothing allowance and if they have 183 days' service and receive an honorable discharge, a rehabilitation grant of 30 days' pay and one month's dependents allowance. They also receive a railway warrant to their home or place of enlistment.

AFTER DISCHARGE

Service personnel seeking employment apply through Employment and Selective Service, but in many offices which will find Veterans' Welfare Officers and other specially trained staff ready to assist them. Veterans who wish to return to their former civilian positions are entitled to re-enlistment in that position, if the job still exists, if they are capable of filling it, and if application is made within three months of discharge. Under the law of Canada every ex-service man or woman with overseas service, or disability pensioners, receive preference in Civil Service appointments if qualified for the position for which they apply.

VETERANS' WELFARE OFFICERS ARE STATIONED IN KEY CENTRES THROUGHOUT CANADA. THEY ADVISE AND ASSIST EX-SERVICE PERSONNEL, AND SHOULD BE CONSULTED ON ALL PROBLEMS.
